EIGHTH PUSHES AHEAD

By SID FEDER
Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 29—(AP)—Fifth Army troops stormed toward four Rome-line strongholds against fierce resistance today, thrusting one wedge within 17 miles of the Eternal City.

Headquarters declared three of 18 German divisions engaged in battle had been virtually destroyed in the broad offensive launched May 11, with more than 15,000 prisoners taken.

Overwhelming Aprilia, once bitterly-contested beachhead fortress, the Fifth punched north within a mile of Compolone—the closest penetration toward Rome. To the east the Fifth Army advanced within 2,000 yards of Valmontone, on the shell-torn Via Cassilina, despite flame-throwing German counterattacks.

In between on the Campoleone-Valmontone line, other forces fought in the outskirts of Velletri on the Appian Way, and closed upon Lanuvium, four miles southwest.

Meanwhile the Eighth Army in the Liri and Sacco valleys to the southeast pushed ahead, breaking down German rear guard stands.

As the sound of the great battle rolled into Rome, the enemy in the mountains southeast of Valmontone was driven out of the towns of Serraneta and Bassiano, below Norma, which was overwhelmed yesterday.

In its northward drive the Fifth Army slashed across two of the bitterest battlegrounds of the beachhead fights of last February.

French forces meantime followed up their seizure of Villa Santo Stefano by taking on northward through the hills toward the Liri valley.

To the north, in the area of Arce at the junction of highways six and 82 they surrounded the towering Monte Oreo, dominating Arce and surrounded Santo Padre, four and a half miles northeast.

Fighting Localized On Russian Front

London, May 29—(P)—Bursts of fighting on the lower Dnepr and the White Russian fronts, where localized German attacks were reported repulsed, were announced by Moscow today, but the general situation on the long dormant eastern front remained unchanged over the weekend, a Soviet communiqué said.

Northwest of Tiraspol on the lower Dnepr, the bulletin declared, the Germans attempted a reconnaissance in force but were thrown back with heavy losses by withering Russian fire.

Southeast of Vitebsk, at the upper end of the White Russian front, the Nazis were said to have lost at least 230 men in an unsuccessful attempt to regain height occupied by Soviet troops a few days before.

No other activity on the land front was reported by the Russians.

K. OF C. ELECTS

Greensburg, May 29—(P)—Robert J. White, of Williamsport, was re-elected state deputy by the Knights of Columbus at their 47th annual state convention here yesterday. The 1945 convention will be held in Pittsburgh.

FIRE AT GREENSBURG

Greensburg, May 29—(P)—Fire Chief Joseph Rusz, estimated damage at $30,000 to a Main street clothing store here yesterday, as fire swept through one section of the building. A short circuit was blamed by Rusz as causing the blaze.

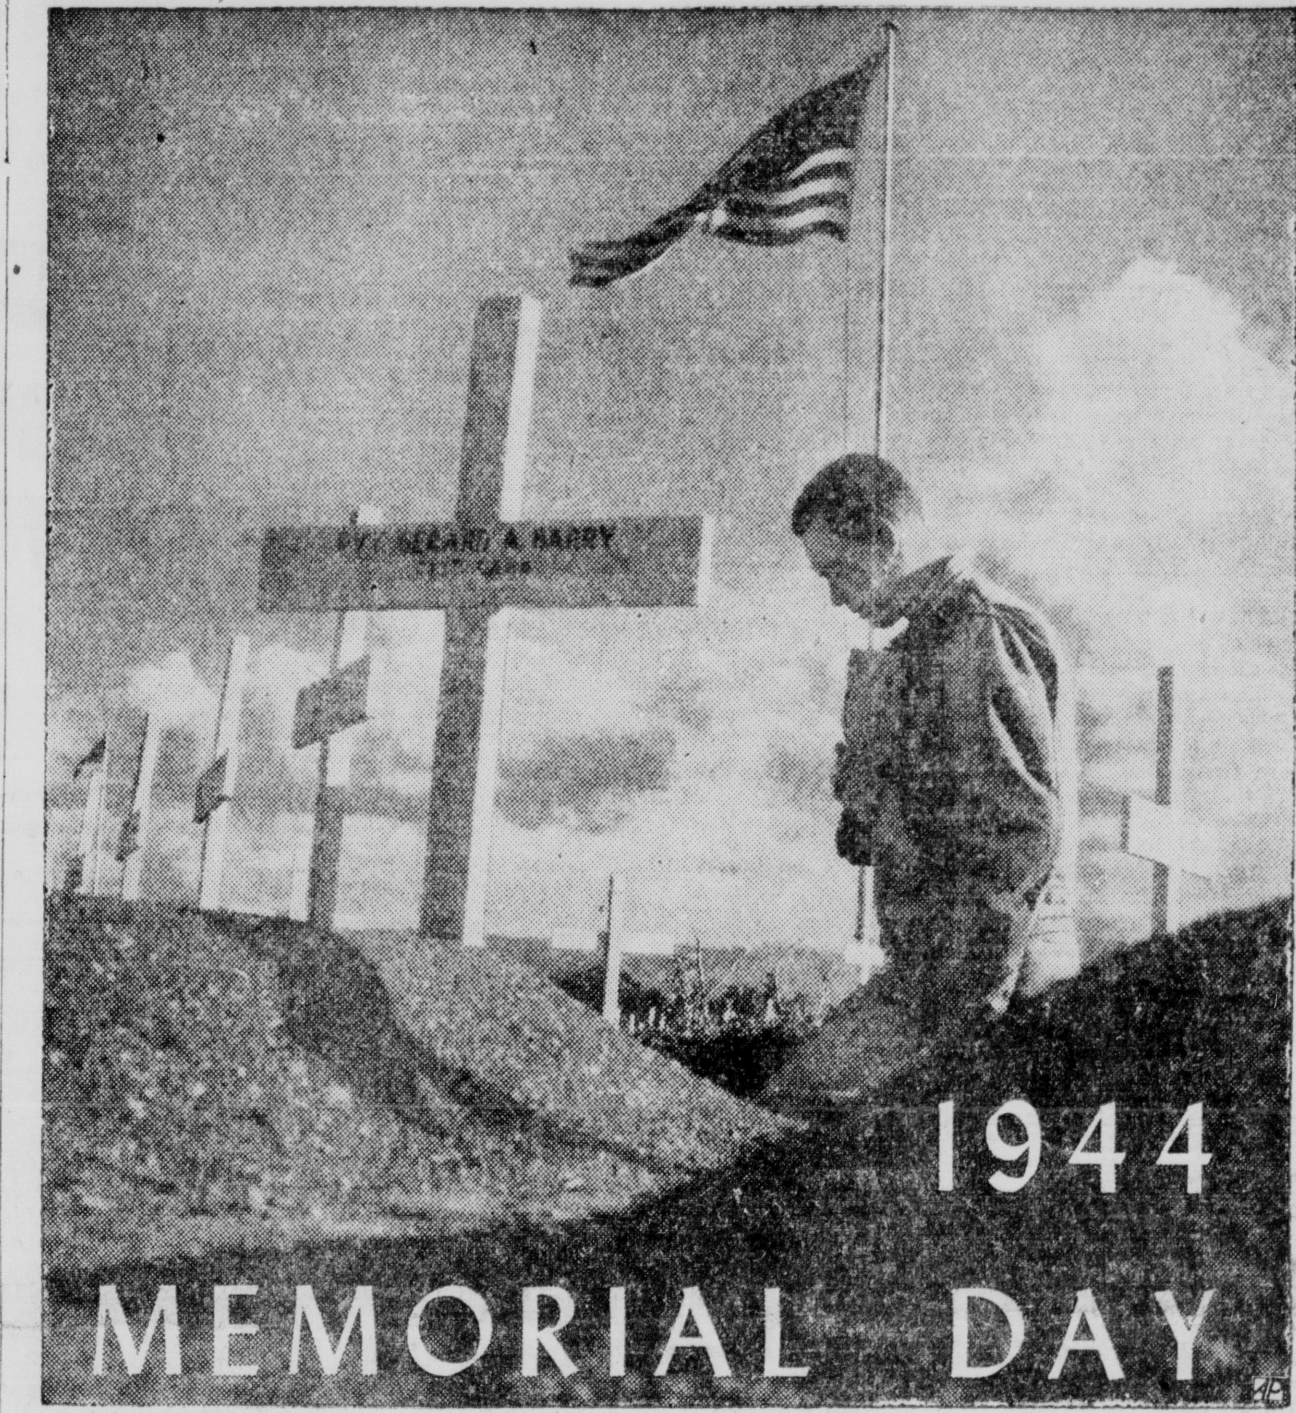

109 Fatal Accidents Listed In Nation Over the Weekend

By the Associated Press

A week-end death toll from traffic accidents, drownings and other mishaps stood at 109 today as the nation began the third day of a four-day Memorial holiday.

Only 31 of the deaths reported today in an Associated Press survey resulted from automobile accidents while 45 were from miscellaneous causes and 33 from drowning.

National Safety Council statistics show normal fatalities over any Saturday, Sunday, Monday

Invasion Propaganda Turns to Swing Music

London, May 29—(P)—The Germans' invasion propaganda has gone in for swing music.

A new hour-long swing program entitled "D-Day Calling" was put on the air by the German radio last night, with the theme song "When D-Day Comes" played to the tune of "When Shadows Fall."

One section was directed especially to American troops by a master of ceremonies who said—"Hody, Yanks. This is Fred W. Kaltenbach talking at you."

Indication Of New Tension Seen In Reich

By JAMES M. LONG

London, May 29—(P)—German broadcasts reflected increased tension in Marshal von Rundstedt's entire front facing this troop-packed island today as temperatures over the glassy Strait of Dover reached an unofficial 100 degrees shortly before noon.

Nazi commentators asserted that Gen. Eisenhower had missed one favorable invasion date when the tides and weather were perfect and cried out: "Germany would prefer for the invasion to come to day rather than tomorrow."

That suggested that enemy defenses at least one already had been brought to a nerve-wrecking peak of alertness, only to find that Hitler's command had guessed wrong.

The Swiss newspaper, Gazette de Lausanne, gave a new clue to the defense problem of von Rundstedt, complicated by railroads (Turn to Page Two)

Record Crowd in Attendance At Annual Community Service

More than 400 persons attended the annual community Memorial Service on the lawn of the American Legion Home last night.

The service was sponsored by the Veterans' organizations and the Ministerial Association. The nearness of the coming invasion in which many Warren County boys will see action, the approach of Memorial Day and the perfect weather all had a part in bringing out the largest crowd that ever attended one of these community services.

Rev. Ernest Runk of the First Baptist church delivered the message of the evening and took for his subject some admonitions, four in all, that Joshua gave his followers as they were about to enter the promised land. He drew attention to the present-war-torn condition of our land and urged that people pray more sincerely and personally for the welfare of our fighting men and the cause for which they are fighting.

Melvin G. Keller of Chief Cornplanter Post presided. Several good musical numbers were played by the N. F. V. F. W. Band and the Warren High School. A Cappella Choir gave two selections that were appropriate and skillfully rendered. Rev. Wayne Furman led in the invocation. Rev. B. Elmer Landerahl read the Scripture lesson and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Fr. Alfred Bauer.

Announcements pertaining to Memorial Day and the parade at 10:00 a. m. were made by Robert Pring and Glen E. Stone; Commanders of the V. F. W. and American Legion Posts. Both officers urged members of their organizations to participate in tomorrow's parade and memorial exercises that follow at the cemetery.

The speaker of the day will be Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church.

The V. F. W. will have charge of the parade comprising four divisions.

The parade will form on Fourth avenue at 9:30 and move promptly 10 o'clock. Exercises at the cemetery will follow with the special memorial service in honor of Warren County's War dead at the G. A. R. Circle. This will be in charge of members of Chief Cornplanter Post with the firing squad and buglers taking part.

Following the parade and memorial exercises luncheons will be (Turn to Page Nine)

Another Headache is Coming Up June 10th

Washington, May 29—(P)—The $5.00 automobile use tax stamps for the coming year will go on sale June 10 in postoffices and internal revenue collectors' offices.

These will cover the tax for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and must be displayed on windshields after that date.

Stillwell's Chinese and American troops stormed into Myitkyna to within half a mile of the railway station.

The Myitkyna battle was a vital part of the China battle, for Etliwell needs it to link the Ledo and Burma roads for a supply line into China.

On Biak island in the Schoutens American troops moved from captured Bisnek, principal port, to within two and a half miles of Mokmer airfield against increasing enemy fire.

Prison Term For Former Pastor
Uniontown, May 29—(P)—George Elmer Schott, 54, of Vanderbilt, who was a preacher in January when a Fayette county jury convicted him of assaulting his wife with a miniature baseball bat, today was sentenced to serve a year in Allegheny county workhouse and pay costs approximating $100.

"This is a truly sorrowful occasion," said Judge W. Russell Carr as he pronounced sentence.

Schott resigned his charge at Vanderbilt after his conviction. He and his wife, Garnet, 50, were married 16 months ago.

The jury, which convicted Schott on a charge of aggravated assault, had recommended mercy.

Asked if he had anything to say, Schott told the court: "I do not, your honor."

Walkouts In Michigan Are Terminated

Detroit, May 29—(P)—Two of Michigan's biggest labor headaches were over today as Chrysler Corp. day shift employees passed through gates at the Highland Park plant and arrangements were made for termination of a strike which has made 2,800 idle at the Chevrolet transmission division of General Motors at Saginaw.

Two other strikes involving 2,900 employees continued, however, curtailing production of medical supplies at Parke, Davis & Co. and tying up deliveries of baked goods to Detroit stores, restaurants and hotels.

The decision to permit reopening of the Chrysler plant was reached at a stormy mass meeting yesterday of 500 members of Chrysler Local 499, United Automobile Workers (CIO), who voted three to one to heed the warning of International Union President R. J. Thomas that such incidents as the Chrysler pickets' demonstration had inflamed public opinion against the union. There were no pickets at plant gates this morning.

One thousand Detroit bread truck drivers continued their strike despite pleas by local and international officers of the AFL Teamsters Union for them to return immediately and let the War Labor Board settle their grievance over wage adjustments.

OUTPUT BEHIND SCHEDULE
Washington, May 29—(P)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board has disclosed that munitions production in April was 3 per cent behind schedule, and 2 per cent under the March quota. Nelson said in a week-end report that the 1944 production has been cut from an original objective of $82,000,000,000 to "somewhat less" than $69,000,000,000.

SITUATION ON CHINA FRONT IS DESPERATE

Kai-Shek's Forces Fighting Violently To Thwart Ambitious Japanese Offensive

CRITICAL PERIOD NEAR

By J. B. KRUEGER

Associated Press War Editor

China's armies fought desperately on four fronts today to thwart the most ambitious Japanese offensives in seven years of warring against the Chinese.

The Asiatic fighting overshadowed all other Pacific war fronts, including the progressing American invasion of the Schoutens, because it was the most ominous. Chungking authorities felt that China, beset in the north and east, may be entering its most critical period of the conflict.

Japanese troops pushed down the Hankow-Canton railroad to within 80 miles of Changsha, a city the Chinese have seen fit to defend with great effort on three previous occasions, all successfully.

Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th U. S. Airforce rushed into the Changsha fighting, strafing the road from Yoyang to Puchi, destroying trucks, troops, warehouses and barracks. Farther north his airmen attacked barracks at Singyang on the Hankow-Peiping section.

Fighting in Honan to the north raged on, at last report, but Chungking reports gave no new word on the Chinese counter-offensive.

On a third front Chinese troops, bogged down by rain, fog, mud and sleet in Yunnan province, pursuing Japanese retreating toward the Burma frontier.

Stillwell's Chinese and American troops stormed into Myitkyna to within half a mile of the railway station.

The Myitkyna battle was a vital part of the China battle, for Etliwell needs it to link the Ledo and Burma roads for a supply line into China.

On Biak island in the Schoutens American troops moved from captured Bisnek, principal port, to within two and a half miles of Mokmer airfield against increasing enemy fire.

Earlier, while touring an army camp at Indiantown Gap in a jeep, Gov. Dewey was asked by a soldier: "Governor, are you going to run for president in 1944 or 1948?"

"I guess I don't have any control over that," Dewey replied.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, second in pledged and claimed delegate strength for the GOP nomination, held an hour's press conference before Dewey arrived in town yesterday. The Ohioan challenged those who aspire to presidential office to come out in the open and discuss issues. He also took issue with Dewey's press conference statement at Mackinac Island last September favoring a continuing military alliance with Great Britain.

There was no immediate statements from union representatives. The mill employees, along with other lumber workers who have walked out in Oregon and Washington, have protested the War Labor Board's refusal to grant wage increases asked by the IWA and AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers union.

Unreal Serenity Pervades England On Church Holiday

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

London, May 29—(P)—An unreal and almost unbelievable serenity lay today over civilian England in this Whit Monday, certainly the last that will come to this island before historic decisions have been reached across the waters to the east.

While vast armies waited tensely for the command that will send them forward, the civilian population dozed in the sunshine, taking an ancient holiday in an atmosphere so tranquil and so relaxed that you looked out upon it and said it simply could not be.

It was like the Fourth of July in Manhattan in peacetime when the outlying boroughs had thrown out their millions to the beaches, up as military convoys rolled past.

Every ordinary business house was closed, buses and taxis ran slowly, fitfully, and only the normal military traffic of trucks, staff cars and more trucks lurching about on their nameless missions broke the long, easy silences of the streets.

A record wartime cricket crowd of 33,000 jammed into Lords for the match between Australia and England, and the roads leading to Ascot were packed with other thousands of racegoers, mainly on bicycles.

Parks were covered over on acre with picnic baskets, and lounging people never turned, never looked out their millions to the beaches, up as military convoys rolled past.

Ideas For Reconversion Are Outlined By Coast Executive At Opening of Conference

BULLETIN

Hershey, May 29—(P)—Immediate announcement by the federal government of its post-war public works aid program was demanded before the national conference of governors today. "We should be told what the federal government is going to do," declared Dwight Griswold (R) of Nebraska, during a round table discussion on post-war problems. Governor Matthew M. Neely (D) of West Virginia, asserted he would like to hear views of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, top figures in discussions over the Republican presidential nomination. Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, and General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, arrived from Washington to appear before an executive luncheon for the governors.

By WICK TEMPLE

Hershey, May 29—(AP)—Governor Earl Warren, of California, today called for cooperative effort by congress and the states to win "a war against the aftermath of war" in reconversion of industry when peace comes.

"Peace may be as much a national crisis as war itself,"

The California executive told the National Conference of Governors.

Governor Warren outlined his ideas for reconversion after the governors heard a message from President Roosevelt congratulating the states for quick mobilization of their resources "for effective unified action against the common enemy," and expressing confidence the problems ahead "will be met by the same cooperative spirit."

The planes flying out from Britain through brilliant, hot Channel skies to the continent. The German radio reported that as the Allies' southern fleet—its bombing presumably accomplished—wheeled for home, bomber formations from Britain approached northwestern Germany. The broadcast added that attacking fighter squadrons had swept into the southern portion of the Reich.

The RAF operations last night, which also included nine heavy enemy bombers, cost one British plane.

The railway center at Angers—a new objective—was the main target of the British night bombers. The attack was reported heavy, although the air ministry indicated the force was not unusually large. It probably consisted of several hundred bombers.

The American raiders delivered the major but not the only blows of the heaviest single day in the western European air war. In all more than 6,000 planes roared out from British bases and rained more than 8,500 tons of bombs on targets ranging all the way from the channel coast to Leipzig.

American losses were 24 heavy bombers and 13 fighters while 93 German planes were shot down, (Turn to Page Nine)

Strike Threat Fails To Halt Mill Operation

Longview, Wash., May 29—(P)—The world's largest sawmills, the Longbell and Weyerhaeuser plants here, operated today with what managements estimated at $0 to 90 per cent of their crews, despite a decision of a mass meeting of congress of Industrial Organization employees last night to "go fishing."

There was no immediate statements from union representatives. The mill employees, along with other lumber workers who have walked out in Oregon and Washington, have protested the War Labor Board's refusal to grant wage increases asked by the IWA and AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers union.

Another 1400 loggers, employed in the district in the woods, will meet today.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 29—(P)—A navy plane, its tail sheared off in a collision with another plane in the air, crashed into a three-story frame dwelling at 113 North Michigan avenue yesterday.

Two boarders in the house at the time escaped injury.

The plane damaged the house and started a fire which was extinguished by firemen responding to two alarms.

The pilot and co-pilot bailed out after the crash with another plane flying with them in a formation of five. One landed on a motor company roof and the other on a second floor porch of a dwelling.

The fliers was based at the Atlantic City Naval Air Station. The second plane was not damaged.

DAY ASSAULTS CAP NIGHT OF RAIDS BY R.A.F.

Snowballing Aerial Offensive Kept Rolling Unchecked Over the Continent

ANGERS NEW OBJECTIVE

By GLADWIN HILL

London, May 29—(AP)—A thousand heavy American bombers and 1,200 fighters spanned the length of Germany today, bombing two aircraft factories in Poland and four in central and eastern Germany while other fleets struck up from the south at the Vienna and Wiener Neustadt areas.

The sky-darkening fleet equalled that of yesterday, which was the largest ever dispatched by the U. S. Air forces.

The Polish factories were at Poznan and Kreisling. Those in Germany were at Leipzig, Tutov, Cottbus and Sorau. The flight to Poznan entailed a round-trip of at least 1,450 miles.

Simultaneously, hundreds of lesser American bombers struck heavily and repeatedly at the bridges, railroads and airdromes.

The attacking Fortresses and Liberators split into several spearheads in efforts to confound the enemy defenses. The German radio reported the fleets engaged in a number of sky battles.

As the stunning day of bombardment drew to dusk, it appeared that the Allies might have sent out another fleet as large as the record number of 8,000 warplanes which flew Sunday from British and Italian bases.

The predominantly American fleets of warplanes scoured the face of Europe, bombed the invasion coasts of France and Belgium, strafed the front lines in Italy and reached deep inside Germany, Poland and Austria to tear up hide-away plants of the German aircraft industry.

Enemy broadcasts said another Allied fleet was striking in the "Lower Danube Basin" from Italy. The Germans declared heavy air battles were fought, with Nazi fighters striking through Allied escort screens into the bomber formations.

The daylight assaults capped a night in which the RAF kept the snowballing air offensive rolling (Turn to Page Nine)

"Escaped War Prisoners" Are Captured in Guard Maneuvers

Perhaps one of the most interesting problems ever assigned to Co. I of the Pennsylvania State Guards was the theoretical capture of "escaped war prisoners," who were hiding in the Glade township woods. Capt. C. D. Cannon of the local Minutemen advised Capt. James V. Scallise of Co. I that the prisoners had been located within a three-mile radius of the range of the Compander Gun Club. Promptly at 6:00 p. m., on Saturday, May 27, Co. I, consisting of about fifty men, who were all fully equipped, left the State Armory to make contact with the patrols sent out by the Minutemen, and at the designated hour made their necessary contact. From that moment the Guardsmen took complete charge.

Patrols were immediately sent out to guard all roads and paths within the area, so as to prevent escape. Company headquarters were established at the Compander Gun Club's camp, and scouting units were then sent out to isolate the "escaped war prisoners." The Minutemen who simulated the escaped prisoners then attempted to break through the lines established. The Minutemen, who in civilian life were sportsmen and accustomed to the woods, pulled many a surprise on the Guardsmen, disregarding orders and lit a cigarette. To his surprise, he was immediately captured by one of the Minutemen. Another Minuteman reported that he spotted an advance group of the Guards due to the fact that all of a sudden the birds and small game stopped their chattering, which warned him of the approaching group.

Throughout the night, Capt. Scallise received reports from his men, and finally succeeded in isolating the group of "escaped prisoners" within a quarter-mile area. He then sprung his big surprise. He called upon the Civil Air Patrol to furnish aerial reconnaissance, and under the leadership of Lts. Warren M. Stone and Burkhardt, A. J., the planes scouted the area, made maps, showing the exact location of the prisoners, and notwithstanding that there was no radio control between the airmen and the Guardsmen, communications were maintained.

THE ARMY AND NAVY NEED NEARLY EVERYTHING WE CAN MAKE

They need vast quantities of telephones, switchboards and cable—to say nothing of many secret electronic devices as well.

And their needs grow greater as our forces advance.

Peace-time producers of telephone equipment are engaged almost exclusively in the manufacture of electronic and other war communication equipment for the Army and Navy.

And we have just about used up the "margins" we built into our telephone plant.

We're working central offices at maximum capacity.

We're using every telephone facility we can put our hands on.

This is why there must be waiting lists for telephone service—waiting lists that are lengthening from week to week.

But there can be no waiting lists for the men who fight our battles.

"In the name of the President of the United States, the Commander-in-Chief, United States Pacific Fleet, takes pleasure in presenting the Air Medal to Ensign Allen M. Smith for service as set forth in the following:

He, by the excellent display of ability and devotion to duty, performed most meritoriously and rendered great and indispensable aid to the successful conduct of the bombing attacks. His skillful work in navigation and piloting was responsible in a large degree for the success of the missions and for the safe return of all aircraft. Softballers To Get Under Way Tonight

Tonight at 6:00 p. m. on Beatty field the local "Y"-Church softball league will go into action. Grace Methodist under the leadership of Ray Johnson will face Mush Johnson's First Methodist ten.

If the teams are as well matched as they were last year then a great game is in store for those who witness it. Last season the First Methodist team was runner-up to the St. Joseph team in the championship and they come on the diamond this season with practically the same lineup. Grace Methodist, on the other hand was the team that always gave First M. E. their greatest opposition. They too have almost the same line-up as last year, so anything can happen when these two teams clash tonight.

The umpiring will be in charge of Dick Harris who very capably handled many of the games last season.

MEMORIAL DAY—1944!

Throughout most of the states tomorrow, Americans will do honor to the men whose lives have brought us so far along the road to victory. There is no need to urge the solemnity of this Memorial Day, for no one can be insensible to the increasing debt that the nation owes to them and to the others who, with tragic certainty, must follow them before the end of that road is reached.

This is a day of American homage to American fighting men. But it does not seem inappropriate to the spirit of the observance that we should remember at the same time the soldiers and sailors of Allied and occupied nations who have died in the common cause.

Let us look back at other Memorial Days of this war. May 30, 1940, was perhaps the blackest day of the blitzkrieg. The retreat from Dunkirk was at its height. The Allied armies were shattered and fleeing. Nothing stood in the way of the onrushing Germans.

A year later Dunkirk was being repeated in Crete. Nazi paratroopers had driven the British into the sea. Nazi planes were bombing the transports that rescued the remnants of the defenders.

The next Memorial Day found America and Russia in the war. That day one Japanese submarine had sunk an American ship off Seattle, another had shelled Australia. The Nazis were completing their occupation of Kharkov and the Kerch peninsula.

But that day, too, the tide began to turn as more than 1000 British planes bombed Cologne.

On May 30, 1943, great fleets of American bombers were over France. On Attu, American soldiers fought with rifle butts, bayonets, knives and fists. By the end of the day the Jap defenders were annihilated.

The men who fell at Dunkirk and Crete, at Pearl Harbor and Bataan, at Kharkov and Sevastopol, died in desperate, bitter fighting for what may have seemed then a hopeless cause. But the blows they struck, with what weapons they had, made possible the turning tide and the victory that will come.

Let us remember them, all of them, and the men who must give their lives today and every day until the enemy is finally crushed. And let us honor them with honest efforts to speed this war to its end to secure the world from the horror of its return.

BOY SCOUTS AND AVIATION

The air age has arrived. A little 12-second power flight by two courageous American pioneers in December of 1903 was the instrument of destiny. Within three decades the principles of aerodynamics which lifted the frail Wright plane off the ground have been explored and harnessed to lift great 84 ton airliners, clippers, transport planes and bombers off the ground and up into the heights of the stratosphere, twenty to thirty thousand feet above us.

Mountains, deserts, rivers, oceans and man-made defenses have lost their withholding, as these new instruments of power move over and beyond. Distance is made captive and time yields its age-old grip as a pursuit plane flies from San Francisco to New York in six and one-half hours and a great four-motored plane flies from Australia half-way around the world to Washington, D. C., in 36 hours.

In keeping with this modern trend, Warren can boast of another "first". The first Air Scout Squadron to be organized in this part of the country was constituted last week at Troop 9 headquarters in the First Methodist church.

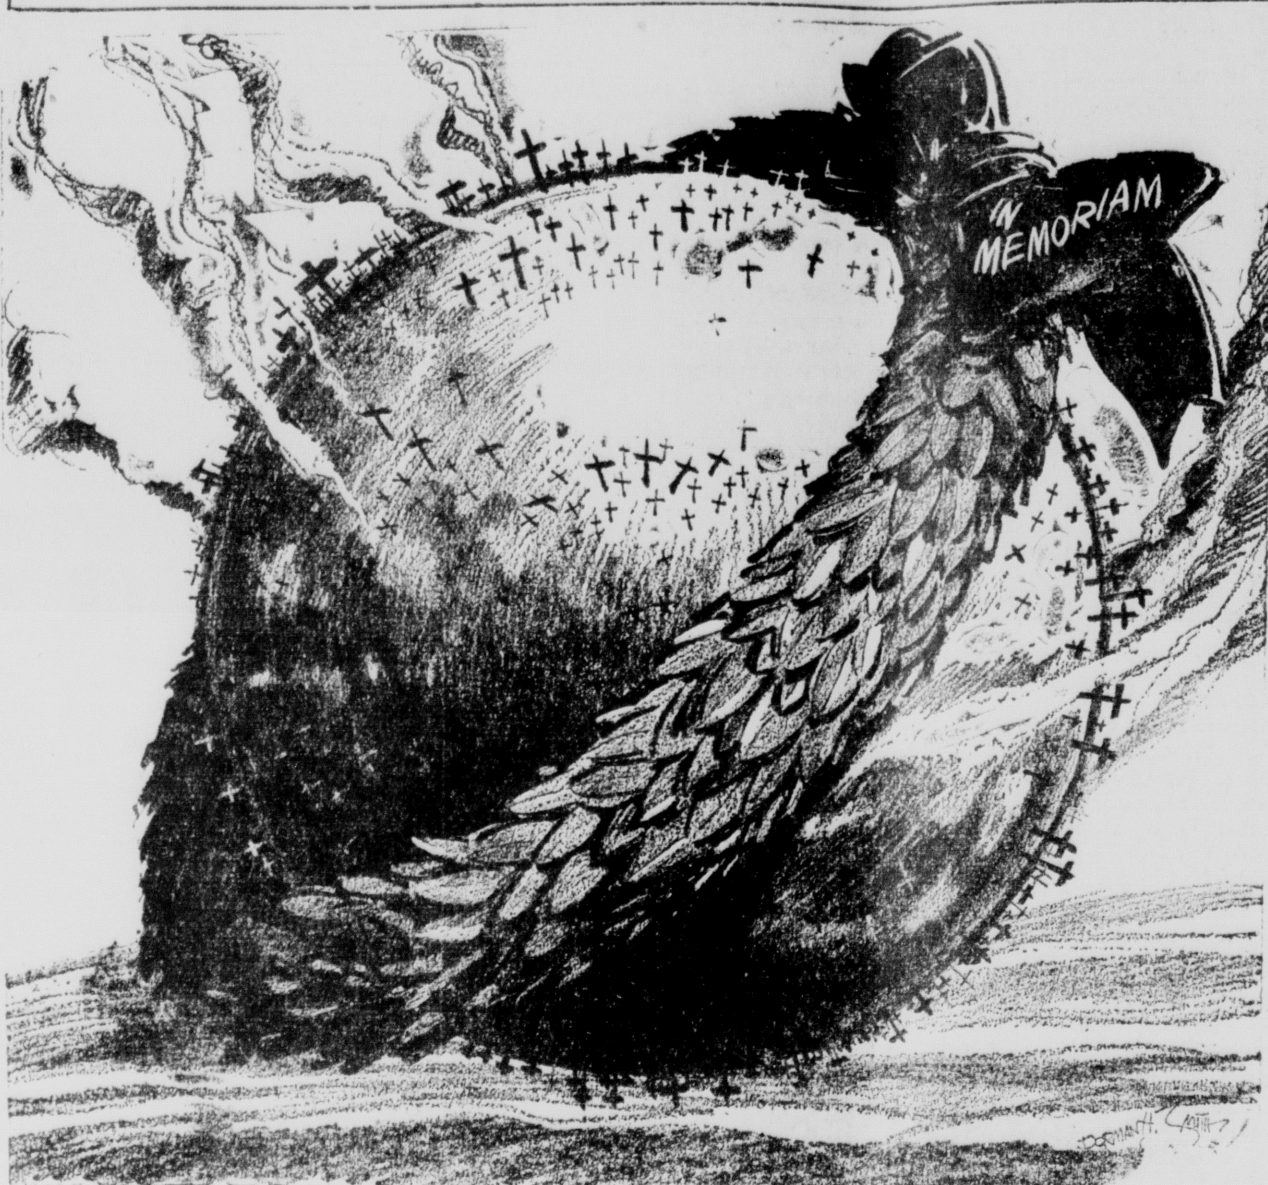

The program has been prepared with the encouragement, as well as the technical council and advice of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Civilian Pilot Training Program, as well as the U. S. Office of Education. Our hats are off to the Boy Scouts who have done a magnificent job throughout the emergency and who are now entering a new and more interesting field.

German-held Valmontone, astride the great Casilina highway twenty miles southeast of Rome, was the outstanding strategic prize for which a furious battle was being fought today, as the Allied offensive from the Anzio beachhead continues to surge ahead. Loss of Valmontone by the Hitlerites would be a heavy blow to their defense of Rome—if indeed they intend to defend it to the last.

A pint of your blood today for the living is more than another Memorial flag on the graves of tomorrow's dead. Enroll now for the visit of the Blood Bank June 19 and 20!

SPONGE CAKE EASY WAY TO USE EGGS IN MEALS

Some of you are seeking help with the planning of attractive and nourishing meals this spring. Right now while eggs are abundant is the time to use an extra dozen or two a week, eggs are one of our best protective foods and require no ration points which is something in their favor.

For good health, everyone needs one egg a day or at least five a week. This is the minimum requirement which nutritionists recommend to help maintain good health. Plan to include eggs in your meals at least once a day or oftener during the next month. Check over your favorite egg recipes and serve again the dishes you had to eliminate from your menus when eggs were scarce. Sponge cake is one way to use those extra eggs and it gives your family a delicious cake. Unfrosted sponge cake is good for children and one way to help you get your egg a day. If you are dissatisfied with the recipe you last used, perhaps you would like to try this one. It is called a "True" Sponge Cake." Here is the recipe:

When a soldier is greeted with "Hello, CORPUSCLE," he has two stripes on his arm, for that is Army English for corporal. A corporal may be given to a soldier for many and diversified duties—mail clerk, company clerk, jeep driver, cook, gunner, mechanic, just to name a few. The WACs call a corporal a "Junior Leader," which the soldiers frown upon. They think: "(censored)." Two stripes is a corporal, WAC or no WAC! Give us the lusty "Hello, Corpuscule" any day!

1 cup cake flour (measured after sifting once).
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Custard of 1/2 lemon.
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
6 egg whites.
6 egg yolks.
Sift the flour and the salt. Grate the lemon rind and extract the juice. Put egg whites in a large bowl; beat with a rotary egg beater only until they will form peaks when the beater is withdrawn. Beat in the sugar gradually; add the unbeaten egg yolks one at a time, beating after each addition; beat in the lemon juice and rind. Sift about 1/4 cup of flour over the egg mixtures; cut and fold in lightly; continue until all flour is in. Pour the mixture into an ungreased tube cake pan. Bake in a slow oven, 325° F. for about 1 hour.

LADY IN A WHIRL

By Esther Valck-Georgins

Chapter 17
CORA took the path that led to the kitchen. She could not see the porch from there but she knew Zelda and Pete must be out there because she heard Zelda laugh. The kitchen was empty. Sam and Eglantine were nowhere in sight. Cora emptied the berries into a shallow yellow bowl. Then she changed her mind and got two small blue plates and arranged the berries equally on these.

"There," she said. "One for Zelda—and one for Pete."

She stepped out onto the porch, and stopped, struck, for the instant, dumb.

There sat Zelda all in white, and radiant as a star, and by her side—with his shining, dark head bent close—sat the count!

"Well, scramble my eggs!" gasped Cora.

"Oh, Cora!" Zelda almost sang it, and her dark eyes danced with happiness. "Teddy found us. Imagine!"

"Miss Pettit," said Count Varanisi, rising, "and as charming as ever."

"Huh!" said Cora. "How do you do."

She put the plates on the table. "I brought these for you," she said pointedly to Zelda.

"You're an angel, Cora. And some for Teddy, too. Dig in, Teddy, and have your first taste of our wild berries."

Cora's nose, already pink with excitement, now became scarlet with rage. She felt she would burst if she had to watch the count eat the berries she had gathered.

strained and white. Deep, dark circles were under his eyes. He seemed to see only Zelda.

"I've done it!" he said hoarsely and smiled a crooked smile. "I've finished my symphony. It's done." He leaned against the doorway. "I think it's good, Zelda. I think it's okay."

"Oh, Pete!" said Zelda, too intent on her own happiness to think of anything else. "You remember Count Varanisi. He found me way up here in the mountains. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Why—yes," said Pete, and what little color he had, drained from his face.

The count rose and extended his hand. "Glad to see you again," he said smoothly.

"Thanks," said Pete. "I hope you'll excuse me. I'll see you later."

He turned and went into the house. Cora followed him.

"PETE," she said, "Pete, don't mind. She just didn't think. She's excited. She's really awfully interested in your music. And I'm awfully glad too, Pete. I don't know a great deal about such things—but I do know a thing or two about you—and if you think it's good, I'll let it be."

Pete grabbed her and hugged her. "Thanks, old girl," he said. "I can always depend on you. Can't I? If you were ten years younger I'd elope with you tomorrow. I will anyway if you'll both your hair."

"Stop it!" commanded Cora. But there was no stopping Pete now. He lifted Cora, despite her struggles and carried her across the room.

"Sit there," he said, and dumped her on top of the piano. "Now listen."

Then he played. He played like a demon. He played like an angel. He sang. He went through the entire symphony he had been working on for months and had just completed.

Sam and Eglantine appeared in the doorway, their eyes rolling and their teeth flashing.

Pete finally finished—with a flourish. His audience shared his ecstasy.

"Lord bless us," said Eglantine, "I never heard nothin' like it."

"Me neither," agreed Sam, and he went to prepare a julep for the genius.

"PETE, it is great," exclaimed Cora. She slid from the piano and went to the door.

"I guess they've gone for a walk," she told Pete, indicating the empty porch.

"The devil with them!" said Pete, and gathering up his note books, he went to his room.

Cora followed his example and sought the seclusion of her bedroom. Slowly she undressed and, wrapped in a flat purple kimono, stretched out flat on her back across the bed. This position she nearly always found conducive to clear thinking. But it failed her today. In the first place she could not imagine how the count had discovered their whereabouts. She thought and thought about it but no solution presented itself. So finally she gave it up and turned her mind to other phases of the situation.

Here was everything right back exactly as it had been before they left the city. Maybe things were even worse now. Undoubtedly the count would hurry Zelda along this time. There was no telling. They might be getting engaged even while she lay here thinking about them. Things looked pretty black—for once Cora was thoroughly discouraged and at a loss.

SECOND AUXILIARY HOLDS MEETING

Gracious hospitality of Mrs. David Beatty and Mrs. Harold Banghart was enjoyed by members of the Presbyterian Second Auxiliary on Friday afternoon when they assembled for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. E. E. Koebley conducted devotion on "The Miracle of Spring."

Mrs. Carleton Foss, of Sugar Grove, former missionary to Malaya, was the speaker. Because she had just recently left that country, in January of 1942, three weeks before the Japanese occupation, her information was authentic and up to date. Limited only by the time allotted her, Mrs. Foss gave a clear picture of life in Malaya before the seizure by Japan, correcting many erroneous ideas held by her listeners. She closed her talk with a plea for tolerance and understanding of all other members of the human race.

Concluding, tea was served by Mrs. George L. Craft, with Mrs. H. W. Conarro, Mrs. M. A. Connelly, Mrs. Myrta Dalrymple, Miss Macie Flower, Mrs. Fletcher Parker, Miss Mary Kopf, Mrs. R. W. Mackey, Mrs. Donald Morgan, Mrs. Evelyn Overturf and Mrs. H. C. Warren on the assisting committee.

President Louise Neely will conduct a brief business meeting following dinner and the remainder of the evening will be devoted to an informal program of games and entertainment.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF RUSSELL ALUMNI

The annual banquet of the Russell High School Alumni Association will be held in the Methodist church at that place at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, June 10. The committee advises all alumni that in an effort to reduce expenses no invitation will be issued but all are cordially invited.

Instructor Gives Russian Address For WSCS Ladies

Mrs. W. G. Cable was chairman of the following committee for the May dinner of the WSCS of First Methodist church, held in Founders Hall: Mrs. P. D. Belknap, Mrs. H. B. Bowersox, Miss Joanna Bright, Mrs. Roy Brown, Miss Lucille Farrell, Mrs. F. A. Lesser, Mrs. Ray Lewis, Mrs. Warren Miller, Mrs. J. R. Shepard and Mrs. E. S. Stiller Mrs. J. Garber gave the invocation.

Adjourning to Dunham parlors, Mrs. E. S. Briggs opened the business meeting, Mrs. C. C. Burch conducting devotion on the theme "Infant Voices". A letter was read from Miss Carrie C. Kanyon telling of her work in Malaya and Mrs. Bowersox made a plea for workers to make surgical dressings for the Red Cross.

Mrs. I. A. Reed had charge of the program, which opened with a fine talk on "Russia Changes Her Mind" by R. R. Young, of the high school faculty. In well constructed and comprehensive form the speaker traced the growth and various aspects of the socialistic movement in Russia during the past century, emphasizing at all points the practical, realistic approach of Joseph Stalin to political, economic and religious problems, in contrast with the idealistic but revolutionary methods of the earliest communist leaders.

In closing, he presented an effective appeal for an attitude of prayer and dedication of self on the part of every individual citizen of American prior to D-Day in order that the ideals of democracy shall triumph in the coming conflict and that America shall take her rightful place as the dominant world influence for justice, honorable dealing and Christian ethics.

Gloria Hausman, accompanied by Evelyn Wolstencroft, sang "Passing By" and "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Mrs. George Muir pronounced the benediction.

Plans were made for the June meeting, to be held in the form of a picnic in Crescent Park.

MEMORIAL DAY MIRACLE

(By Robert D. Duncan)

The parade was done. The old man sat in the morning sun. Watching the last of the band. Crossing the square, trumpets in hand. "Taps" they blew for young Don Breen. Signed Samuel Wynn. "What will he glean Of Victory? Like my boy, Jed—" The old man slowly shook his head.

"He'll know, Sam. What my boy knew. Sure as I'm sitting here talking to you. (He's added, thought Sam. Never been right Since his lad was gassed in the trenches that night.) "Twas at the Armistice Day parade; I felt his touch, turned unafraid. And saw him, smiling, yet somehow sad."

"He shook his head. No, I'm not mad! I saw him, I tell you, and now I know why He looked that way. He'd had to die For victory that hadn't been won— Another day Man would shoulder a gun." Sam Wynn was silent. Disbelief Flooded his face, along with grief. "If he knew that, what says he now?"

Raised up as though in solemn vow, The old man's hand made still Sam's voice; "Believe, believe me and rejoice! He stands there now. I see him nod! He means if we cleave to the word of God, Follow the coming victory through, Enduring peace will come anew!"

Sam Wynn looked up; saw a swirl of dust, And a hand-mark on the old man's sleeve. A wrinkle? Perhaps—but he knew he must Share the old man's faith. He would believe!

Hope Windows Defeat S.-W. at the State Hospital 5 to 3

Last Saturday's game at the hospital between the Hope Windows and "Red" Wansons of Jamestown and "Red" Wansons of Jamestown Wells club proved to be a pleasant surprise to most of the spectators. Both sides have plenty of young material and both players heads-up. "Hopes" tallied first, failed to hold the lead as "Red" Wansons came in to hit Reed in the sixth and drove in two runs. The game was a saw affair with nice fielding the part of both clubs. The "Hopes" have had more experience this season as they have already three full games under their belts. The hits were even, nine in. Jim Ross worked the entire innings and considering the fact that this was his first time this season, done an excellent

about

is a very important letter in this war.

It's the name of the War Bonds you buy—"War Savings Bond Series E."

As you know, a Series E Bond will work for you for ten full years, piling up interest all that time, till finally you'll get four dollars back for every three you put up. Pretty nice.

The first job of the money you put into "E" is, of course, to help finance the war. But it also gives you a wonderful way to save money.

And when the war is over, that money you now put away can do another job, can help America swing over from war to peace.

There'll come a day when you'll bless these Bonds—when they may help you over a tough spot.

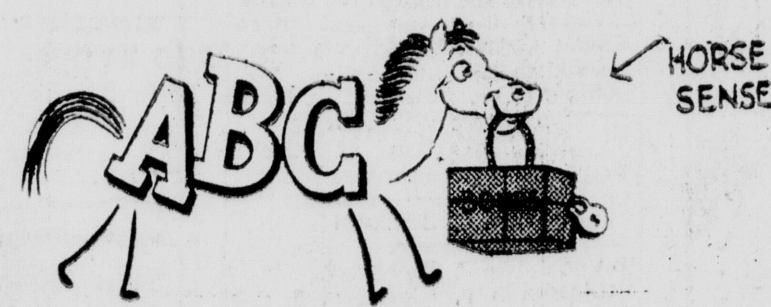

That's why you should make up your mind to hang on to every Bond you buy. You can, of course, cash in your Bonds any time after you've held them for 60 days. You get all your money back, and, after one year, all your money plus interest.

But when you cash in a Bond, you end its life before its full job is done. You don't give it its chance to help you and the country in the years that lie ahead.

You kill off its $4-for-every-$3 earning power.

All of which it's good to remember when you might be tempted to cash in some of your War Bonds. They are yours, to do what you want with.

But... it's ABC sense that...

They'll do the best job for you and for America if you let them reach the full flower of maturity!

America Honors her Heroes

of Past and Present Wars on

★ ★ ★ Decoration Day Tuesday, May 30, 1944

★ Wherever our banner flies, Freedom's cause is protected. It will be lowered tomorrow, Decoration Day, in reverence to those who in years gone by have fought boldly and well for the cause each in his time believed in preserving; also to those who have made the supreme sacrifice in the present world-wide struggle to end tyranny forever. There are thousands fighting under the Stars and Stripes who have given their lives that democracy might survive, even as more are doing today. In salute to them and to the heroes of yesteryear, Old Glory dips to half mast on Decoration Day as we who live on rededicate ourselves to all that our Flag signifies.

This page is sponsored by the following business concerns in tribute to all American heroes, past and present. The nation pauses tomorrow to do them homage:

ALLIES DRIVE WITHIN 17 MILES OF ROME

CASILINA ROAD UNDER STEADY CANNON FIRE

Main Escape Route of Eight German Divisions Hammered by Fifth Army
EIGHTH PUSHES AHEAD

By SID FEDER
Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 29—(AP)—Fifth Army troops stormed toward four Rome-line strongholds against fierce resistance today, thrusting one wedge within 17 miles of the Eternal City.

Headquarters declared three of 18 German divisions engaged in battle had been virtually destroyed in the broad offensive launched May 11, with more than 15,000 prisoners taken.

Overwhelming Aprilia, once bitterly-contested beachhead fortress, the Fifth punched north within a mile of Campoleone—the closest penetration toward Rome. To the east the Fifth Army advanced within 2,000 yards of Valmontone, on the shell-ton Via Casilina, despite flame-throwing German counterattacks.

In between on the Campoleone-Valmontone line, other forces fought in the outskirts of Velletri on the Appian Way, and closed upon Lanuvium, four miles southwest. Meanwhile the Eighth Army in the Liri and Sacco valleys to the southeast pushed ahead, breaking down German rear guard stands.

As the sound of the great battle rolled into Rome, the enemy in the mountains southeast of Valmontone was driven out of the towns of Serraneta and Bassiano, below Norma, which was overwhelmed yesterday.

In its northward drive the Fifth Army slashed across two of the bitterest battlegrounds of the beachhead fights of last February. French forces meantime followed up their seizure of Villa Santo Stefano by taking off northward through the hills toward the Liri valley.

To the north, in the area of Arce at the junction of highways six and 82 they surrounded the towering Monte Oreo, dominating Arce and surrounded Santo Padre, four and a half miles northeast.

Fighting Localized On Russian Front

London, May 29—(P)—Bursts of fighting on the lower Dnieper and the White Russian fronts, where localized German attacks were reported repulsed, were announced by Moscow today, but the general situation on the long dormant eastern front remained unchanged over the weekend, a Soviet communiqué said.

Northwest of Tiraspol on the lower Dnieper, the bulletin declared, the Germans attempted a reconnaissance in force but were thrown back with heavy losses by withering Russian fire.

Southeast of Vitebsk, at the upper end of the White Russian front, the Nazis were said to have lost at least 200 men in an unsuccessful attempt to regain height occupied by Soviet troops a few days before.

No other activity on the land front was reported by the Russians.

Great Air Fleets Pound Nazi Targets

Invasion Propaganda Turns to Swing Music

London, May 29—(P)—The Germans' invasion propaganda has gone in for swing music. A new hour-long swing program entitled "D-Day Calling" was put on the air by the German radio last night, with the theme song "When D-Day Comes" played to the tune of "When Shadows Fall."

One section was directed especially to American troops by a master of ceremonies who said—with a midwestern accent—"Hody, Yanks. This is Fred W. Kaltenbach talking at you—"

Indication Of New Tension Seen In Reich

By JAMES M. LONG
London, May 29—(P)—German broadcasts reflected increased tension in Marshal von Rundstedt's entire front facing this troop-packed island today as temperatures over the glassy Strait of Dover reached an unofficial 100 degrees shortly before noon.

Nazi commentators asserted that Gen. Eisenhower had missed one favorable invasion date when the tides and weather were perfect and cried out: "Germany would prefer for the invasion to come today rather than tomorrow."

That suggested that enemy defenses at least once already had been brought to a nerve-wrecking peak of alertness, only to find that Hitler's command had guessed wrong.

The Swiss newspaper, Gazette de Lausanne, gave a new clue to the defense problem of von Rundstedt, complicated by railroads (Turn to Page Two)

Record Crowd in Attendance At Annual Community Service

More than 400 persons attended the annual community Memorial Service on the lawn of the American Legion Home last night. The service was sponsored by the Veterans' organizations and the Ministerial Association. The nearness of the coming invasion in which many Warren County boys will see action, the approach of Memorial Day and the perfect weather all had a part in bringing out the largest crowd that ever attended one of these community services.

Rev. Ernest Runk of the First Baptist church delivered the message of the evening and took for his subject some admonitions, four in all, that Joshua gave his followers as they were about to enter the promised land. He drew attention to the present-war condition of our land and urged that people pray more sincerely and personally for the welfare of our fighting men and the cause for which they are fighting.

Melvin G. Keller of Chief Cornplanter Post presided. Several good musical numbers were played by the N. P.—V. F. W. Band and the Warren High School A Cappella Choir gave two selections that were appropriate and skillfully rendered. Rev. Wayne Furman lead in the invocation, Rev. B. Elmer Landerdahl read the Scripture lesson and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Fr. Alfred Bauer.

Announcements pertaining to Memorial Day and the parade at 10:00 a. m. were made by Robert Pring and Glen E. Stone; Commanders of the V. F. W. and American Legion Posts. Both officers urged members of their organizations to participate in tomorrow's parade and memorial exercises that follow at the cemetery. The speaker of the day will be Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church.

The V. F. W. will have charge of the parade comprising four divisions. The parade will form on Fourth avenue at 9:30 and move promptly 10 o'clock. Exercises at the cemetery will follow with the special memorial service in honor of Warren County's War dead at the G. A. R. Circle. This will be in charge of members of Chief Cornplanter Post with the firing squad and buglers taking part.

Following the parade and memorial exercises luncheons will be (Turn to Page Nine)

SITUATION ON CHINA FRONT IS DESPERATE

Kai-Shek's Forces Fighting Violently to Thwart Ambitious Japanese Offensive

CRITICAL PERIOD NEAR

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
China's armies fought desperately on four fronts today to thwart the most ambitious Japanese offensives in seven years of warring against the Chinese.

The Asiatic fighting overshadowed all other Pacific war fronts, including the progressing American invasion of the Schoutens, because it was the most ominous. Chungking authorities felt that China, beset in the north and east, may be entering its most critical period of the conflict.

Japanese troops pushed down the Hankow-Canton railroad to within 80 miles of Changsha, a city the Chinese have seen fit to defend with great effort on three previous occasions, all successfully.

Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th U. S. Airforce rushed into the Changsha fighting, strafing the road from Yoyang to Puchi, destroying trucks, troops, warehouses and barracks. Farther north his airmen attacked barracks at Singyang on the Hankow-Peiping section.

Fighting in Honan to the north raged on, at last report, but Chungking reports gave no new word on the Chinese counter-offensive.

On a third front Chinese troops slogged through rain, fog, mud and sleet in Yunnan province, pursuing Japanese retreating toward the Burma frontier.

Stillwell's Chinese and American troops stormed into Myitkyna to within half a mile of the railway station.

The Myitkyna battle was a vital part of the China battle, for Ethelwell needs it to link the Ledo and Burma roads for a supply line into China.

On Biak island in the Schoutens American troops moved from captured Bisnek, principal port, to within two and a half miles of Mokmer airfield against increasing enemy fire.

Prison Term For Former Pastor

Uniontown, May 29—(P)—George Elmer Schott, 54, of Vanderbilt, who was a preacher in January when a Fayette county jury convicted him of assaulting a wife with a miniature baseball bat, today was sentenced to serve a year in Allegheny county workhouse and pay costs approximately $100.

"This is a truly sorrowful occasion," said Judge W. Russell Carr as he pronounced sentence. Schott resigned his charge at Vanderbilt after his conviction. He and his wife, Garnet, 50, were married 16 months ago.

The jury which convicted Schott on a charge of aggravated assault, had recommended mercy. Asked if he had anything to say, Schott told the court: "I do not, your honor."

Ecuador is Scene Of a Revolution

Quito, Ecuador, May 29—(P)—A revolution broke out today among military forces and civilians. The movement was led by supporters of Velasco Ibarra, former president who is in exile and has been living near the Ecuadorian border in Colombia.

Ecuador is amid a heated presidential campaign, with elections scheduled June 2-3. Some groups opposing the present regime deposed Velasco Ibarra to return to the country as a candidate, but the government refused him a visa from Chile. Velasco Ibarra then went to Colombia, where he previously lived several years in exile.

The Liberal candidate in the elections is Miguel Angel Albornoz, who is opposed by the Velasco Ibarra forces.

Statement By Dewey Almost Announcement

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Hershey, May 29—(P)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York came closest last night to saying he is a willing candidate for the Republican presidential nomination than at any time since the drive in his behalf began nearly two years ago.

Here for the 36th governor's conference, he told nearly 100 newsmen at an interview that he is doing nothing to discourage talk that he is leading in the pre-convention delegate contest, that this talk has "gone beyond the rumor stage" and he expects to have some suggestions for the Republican platform to be adopted at Chicago next month.

Earlier, while touring an army camp at Indiantown Gap in a jeep, Gov. Dewey was asked by a soldier: "Governor, are you going to run for president in 1944 or 1948?"

"I guess I don't have any control over that," Dewey replied.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, second in pledged and claimed delegate strength for the GOP nomination, held an hour's press conference yesterday. The Ohioan challenged those who aspire to presidential office to come out in the open and discuss issues. He also took issue with Dewey's press conference statement at Mackinac Island last September favoring a continuing military alliance with Great Britain.

Flood Control Plans Head Into Hearings

By EARL BARKLEY
Washington, May 29—(P)—Postwar planning for flood control at an overall cost of perhaps three billion dollars headed into hearings before a senate commerce subcommittee today, with projects in the Atlantic coastal, Great Lakes, Ohio river and lower Mississippi areas scheduled for first consideration.

Col. George R. Goethals, chief of the army engineers' civil works division, disclosed as the hearings opened that the division had mapped a potential construction program to cost more than $2,600,000,000 and that the estimate may go considerably higher.

Among the opening witnesses, Calonne Goethals was prepared to recommend quick senate approval of a measure already passed by the house-authorizing projects estimated to cost $810,000,000. These would be constructed after the war along with $1,810,000,000 in other flood control projects previously approved by congress.

The engineers drew their program with the idea that action by congress now would clear the way for construction promptly when peace comes.

ANGERS NEW OBJECTIVE

By GLADWIN HILL

London, May 29—(AP)—A thousand heavy American bombers and 1,200 fighters spanned the length of Germany today, bombing two aircraft factories in Poland and four in central and eastern Germany while other fleets struck up from the south at the Vienna and Wiener Neustadt areas.

The sky-darkening fleet equalled that of yesterday, which was the largest ever dispatched by the U. S. Air forces.

The Polish factories were at Poznan and Kreislitz. Those in Germany were at Leipzig, Tutow, Cottbus and Sorau. The flight to Poznan entailed a round-trip of at least 1,450 miles.

French invasion coast, bombing simultaneously, hundreds of lesser American bombers struck heavily and repeatedly at the bridges, railroads and airbases.

The attacking Fortresses and Liberators split into several spearheads in efforts to confound the enemy defenses. The German radio reported the fleets engaged in a number of sky battles.

As the stunning day of bombardment drew to dusk, it appeared that the Allies might have sent out another fleet as large as the record number of 8,000 warplanes which flew Sunday from British and Italian bases.

The predominantly American fleets of warplanes scoured the face of Europe, bombed the invasion coast of France and Belgium, strafed the front lines in Italy and reached deep inside Germany. Poland and Austria to tear up hide-away plants of the German aircraft industry.

Enemy broadcasts said another Allied fleet was striking in the "lower Danube Basin" from Italy. The Germans declared heavy air battles were fought, with Nazi fighters striking through Allied escort screens into the bomber formations.

The daylight assaults capped a night in which the RAF kept the snowballing air offensive rolling (Turn to Page Nine)

Naval Plane Falls On Dwelling House

Atlantic City, N. J., May 29—(P)—A navy plane, its tail sheared off in a collision with another plane in the air, crashed into a three-story frame dwelling at 113 North Michigan avenue yesterday. Two boarders in the house at the time escaped injury.

The plane damaged the house and started a fire which was extinguished by firemen responding to two alarms.

The pilot and co-pilot bailed out after the crash with another plane flying with them in a formation of five. One landed on a motor company roof and the other on a second floor porch of a dwelling.

The fliers were based at the Atlantic City Naval Air Station. The second plane was not damaged.

Unreal Serenity Pervades England On Church Holiday

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
London, May 29—(P)—An unreal and almost unbelievable serenity lay today over civilian England in this Whit Monday, certainly the last that will come to this island before historic decisions have been reached across the waters to the east.

While vast armies waited tensely for the command that will send them forward, the civilian population dozed in the sunshine, taking an ancient holiday in an atmosphere so tranquil and so relaxed that you looked out upon it and said it simply could not be.

It was like the Fourth of July in Manhattan in peacetime after the outlying boroughs had thrown out their millions to the beaches, up as military convoys rolled past, or like Wall Street on a Sunday afternoon.

"Escaped War Prisoners" Are Captured in Guard Maneuvers

Perhaps one of the most interesting problems ever assigned to Co. I of the Pennsylvania State Guards was the theoretical capture of "escaped war prisoners," who were hiding in the Glade township woods. Capt. C. D. Cannon of the local Minutemen advised Capt. James V. Scallise of Co. I that the prisoners had been located within a three-mile radius of the range of the Complanter Gun Club. Promptly at 6:00 p. m., on Saturday, May 27, Co. I, consisting of about fifty men, who were all fully equipped, left the State Armory to make contact with the patrols sent out by the Minutemen and at the designated hour made their necessary contact. From that moment the Guardsmen took complete charge.

Patrols were immediately sent out to guard all roads and paths within the area, so as to prevent escape. Company headquarters were established at the Complanter Gun Club's camp, and scouting units were then sent out to isolate the "escaped war prisoners." The Minutemen who simulated the escaped prisoners then attempted to break through the lines established.

The Minutemen, who in civilian life were sportsmen and accustomed to the woods, pulled many a surprise on the Guardsmen. A corporal, leading a scouting unit, disregarded orders and lit a cigarette. To his surprise, he was immediately captured by one of the Minutemen. Another Minuteman reported that he spotted an advance group of the Guards due to the fact that all of a sudden the birds and small game stopped their chattering, which warned him of the approaching group.

Throughout the night, Capt. Scallise received reports from his men, and finally succeeded in isolating the group of "escaped prisoners" within a quarter-mile area. He then sprung his big surprise. He called upon the Civil Air Patrol to furnish aerial reconnaissance, and under the leadership of Lt. Warren M. Stone, of Warren, a cub plane scouted the area, made visible, showing the exact location of the prisoners, and notwithstanding that there was no radio control between the airmen and the Guardsmen, communications were well established between the groups by means of flags. Leaflets were dropped on the prisoners demanding their surrender, and failing to get it, the "Air Corps" bombed the area, and the Guardsmen then charged with bayonets and captured the prisoners. This is the first time that the three defense units of the county worked together on a problem which was well designed to bring into play the various functions of each group and while weaknesses were disclosed by the maneuvers, the co-ordinated strength of the three groups proved conclusively the effectiveness of the organizations.

THE ARMY AND NAVY NEED NEARLY EVERYTHING WE CAN MAKE

They need vast quantities of telephones, switchboards and cable—to say nothing of many secret electronic devices as well.

And their needs grow greater as our forces advance.

Peace-time producers of telephone equipment are engaged almost exclusively in the manufacture of electronic and other war communications equipment for the Army and Navy.

And we have just about used up the "margins" we built into our telephone plant.

We're working central offices at maximum capacity.

We're using every telephone facility we can put our hands on.

This is why there must be waiting lists for telephone service—waiting lists that are lengthening from week to week.

But there can be no waiting lists for the men who fight our battles.

Smith for service as set forth in the following: Citation: 'For meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as pilot-navigator of a Coronado seaplane employed in a series of attacks upon Wake Island at night in formation, 30 January to 11 February, 1944. He, by the excellent display of ability and devotion to duty, performed most meritoriously and rendered great and indispensable aid to the successful conduct of the bombing attacks. His skillful work in navigation and piloting was responsible in a large degree for the success of the missions and for the safe return of all aircraft. ## Softballers To Get Under Way Tonight

Tonight at 6:00 p. m. on Beatty field the local "Y"-Church softball league will go into action. Grace Methodist under the leadership of Ray Johnson will face Mush Johnson's First Methodist ten.

If the teams are as well matched as they were last year then a great game is in store for those who witness it. Last season the First Methodist team was runner-up to the St. Joseph team in the championship and they come on the diamond this season with practically the same lineup. Grace Methodist, on the other hand was the team that always gave First M. E. their greatest opposition. They too have almost the same lineup as last year, so anything can happen when these two teams clash tonight.

The umpiring will be in charge of Dick Harris who very capably handled many of the games last season.

MEMORIAL DAY—1944!

Throughout most of the states tomorrow, Americans will do honor to the men whose lives have brought us so far along the road to victory. There is no need to urge the solemnity of this Memorial Day, for no one can be insensible to the increasing debt that the nation owes to them and to the others who, with tragic certainty, must follow them before the end of that road is reached.

This is a day of American homage to American fighting men. But it does not seem inappropriate to the spirit of the observance that we should remember at the same time the soldiers and sailors of Allied and occupied nations who have died in the common cause.

Let us look back at other Memorial Days of this war. May 30, 1940, was perhaps the blackest day of the blitzkrieg. The retreat from Dunkirk was at its height. The Allied armies were shattered and fleeing. Nothing stood in the way of the onrushing Germans.

A year later Dunkirk was being repeated in Crete. Nazi paratroopers had driven the British into the sea. Nazi planes were bombing the transports that rescued the remnants of the defenders.

The next Memorial Day found America and Russia in the war. That day one Japanese submarine had sunk an American ship off Seattle, another had shelled Australia. The Nazis were completing their occupation of Kharkov and the Kerch peninsula.

But that day, too, the tide began to turn as more than 1000 British planes bombed Cologne.

On May 30, 1943, great fleets of American bombers were over France. On Attu, American soldiers fought with rifle butts, bayonets, knives and fists. By the end of the day the Jap defenders were annihilated.

The men who fell at Dunkirk and Crete, at Pearl Harbor and Bataan, at Kharkov and Sevastopol, died in desperate, bitter fighting for what may have seemed then a hopeless cause. But the blows they struck, with what weapons they had, made possible the turning tide and the victory that will come.

Let us remember them, all of them, and the men who must give their lives today and every day until the enemy is finally crushed. And let us honor them with honest efforts to speed this war to its end to secure the world from the horror of its return.

BOY SCOUTS AND AVIATION

The air age has arrived. A little 12-second power flight by two courageous American pioneers in December of 1903 was the instrument of destiny. Within three decades the principles of aerodynamics which lifted the frail Wright plane off the ground have been explored and harnessed to lift great 84 ton airliners, clippers, transport planes and bombers off the ground and up into the heights of the stratosphere, twenty to thirty thousand feet above us.

Mountains, deserts, rivers, oceans and man-made defenses have lost their withholding, as these new instruments of power move over and beyond. Distance is made captive and time yields its age-old grip as a pursuit plane flies from San Francisco to New York in six and one-half hours and a great four-motored plane flies from Australia half-way around the world to Washington, D. C., in 36 hours.

In keeping with this modern trend, Warren can boast of another "first". The first Air Scout Squadron to be organized in this part of the country was constituted last week at Troop 9 headquarters in the First Methodist church.

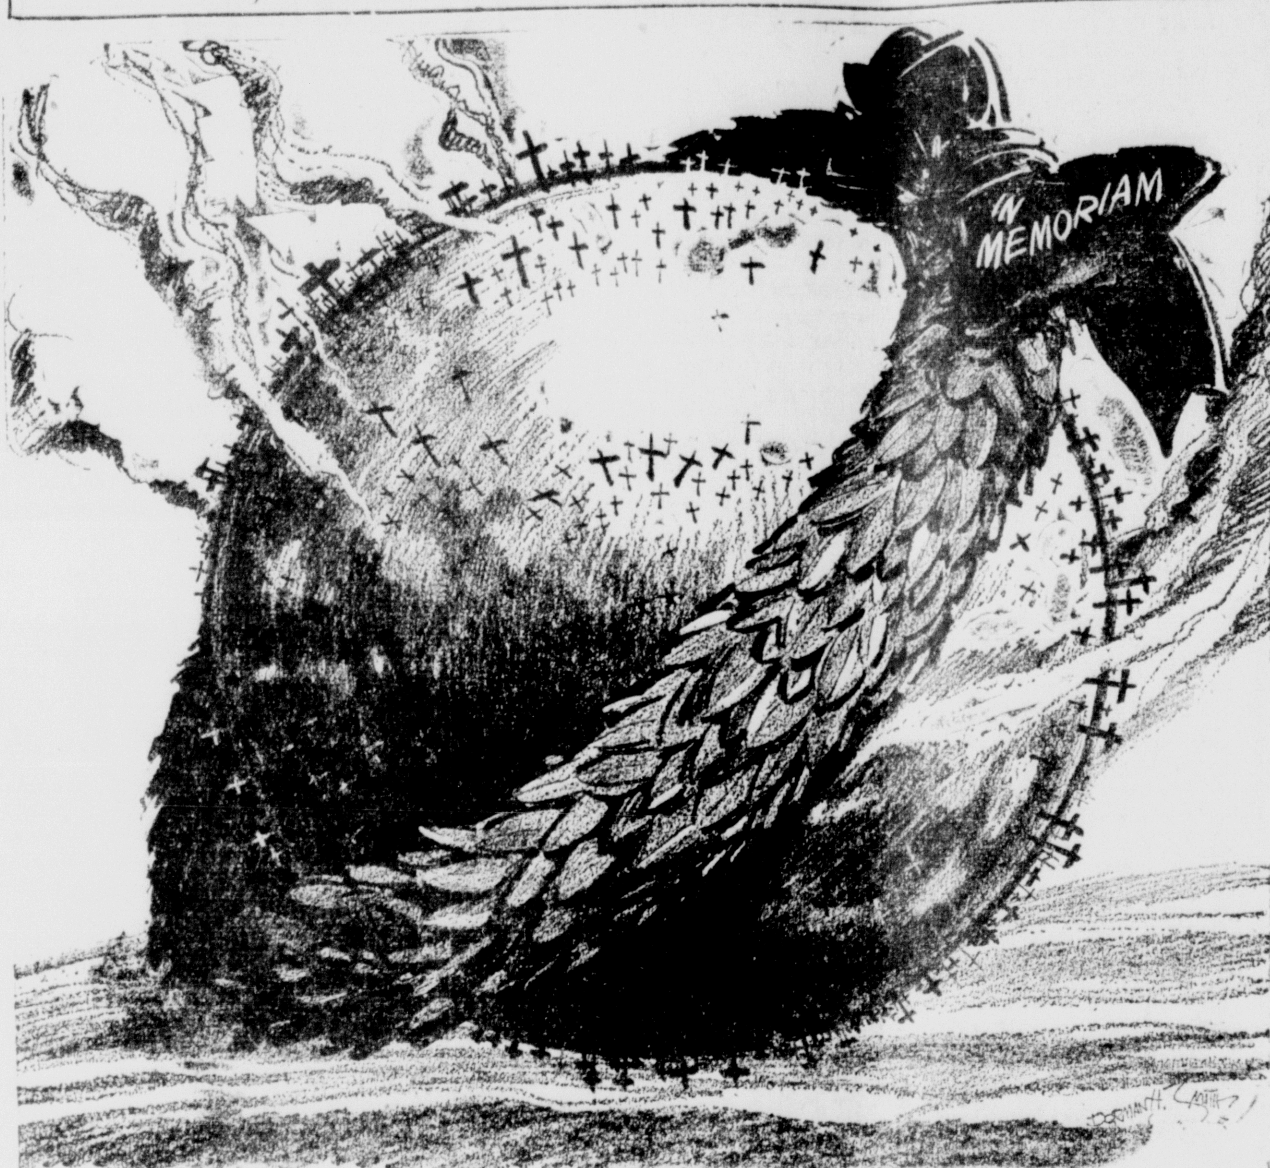

The program has been prepared with the encouragement, as well as the technical council and advice of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Civilian Pilot Training Program, as well as the U. S. Office of Education. Our hats are off to the Boy Scouts who have done a magnificent job throughout the emergency and who are now entering a new and more interesting field.

German-held Valmontone, astride the great Casilina highway twenty miles southeast of Rome, was the outstanding strategic prize for which a furious battle was being fought today, as the Allied offensive from the Anzio beachhead continues to surge ahead. Loss of Valmontone by the Hitlerites would be a heavy blow to their defense of Rome—if indeed they intend to defend it to the last.

A pint of your blood today for the living is more than another Memorial flag on the graves of tomorrow's dead. Enroll now for the visit of the Blood Bank June 19 and 20!

SPONGE CAKE EASY WAY TO USE EGGS IN MEALS

Some of you are seeking help with the planning of attractive and nourishing meals this spring. Right now while eggs are abundant is the time to use as extra dozen or two a week, eggs are one of our best protective foods and require no ration points which is something in their favor.

For good health, everyone needs one egg a day or at least five a week. This is the minimum requirement which nutritionists recommend to help maintain good health. Plan to include eggs in your meals at least once a day or oftener during the next month. Check over your favorite egg recipes and serve again the dishes you had to eliminate from your menus when eggs were scarce.

Sponge cake is one way to use those extra eggs and it gives your family a delicious cake. Unfrosted sponge cake is good for children and one way to help you get your egg a day. If you are dissatisfied with the recipe you last used, perhaps you would like to try this one. It is called a "The Sponge Cake." Here is the recipe:

DETAIL FOR TODAY

Corpuscle

When a soldier is greeted with, "Hello, CORPUSCLE," he has two stripes on his arm, for that is Army English for corporal. A corporality may be given to a soldier for many and diversified duties—mail clerk, company clerk, jeep driver, cook, gunner, mechanic, just to name a few. The WACs call a corporal a "Junior Leader," which the soldiers frown upon. They think: "(censored) two stripes is a corporal, WAC or no WAC! Give us the lusty 'Hello, Corpuscle' any day!"

1 cup cake flour (measured after sifting once).
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Coated rind of 1/2 lemon.
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
6 egg whites.
6 egg yolks.

Sift the flour and the salt. Grate the lemon rind and extract the juice. Put egg whites in a large bowl; beat with a rotary egg beater only until they will form peaks when the beater is withdrawn. Beat in the sugar gradually; add the unbeaten egg yolks one at a time, beating after each addition; beat in the lemon juice and rind. Sift about 1/4 cup of flour over the egg mixtures; cut and fold in lightly; continue until all flour is in. Pour the mixture into an ungreased tube cake pan. Bake in a slow oven, 325° F for about 1 hour.

LADY IN A WHIRL

By Esther Valcke Georgins

Chapter 17

CORA took the path that led to the kitchen. She could not see the porch from there but she knew Zelda and Pete must be out there because she heard Zelda laugh. The kitchen was empty. Sam and Eglantine were nowhere in sight. Cora emptied the berries into a shallow yellow bowl. Then she changed her mind and got two small blue plates and arranged the berries equally on these.

"There," she said. "One for Zelda—and one for Pete."

She stepped out onto the porch, and stopped, struck, for the instant, dumb.

There sat Zelda all in white, and radiant as a star, and by her side—with his shining, dark head bent close—sat the count!

"Well, scramble my eggs!" gasped Cora.

"Oh, Cora!" Zelda almost sang it, and her dark eyes danced with happiness. "Teddy found us. Imagine!"

"Miss Pettit," said Count Varanisi, rising, "and as charming as ever."

"Huh!" said Cora. "How do you do?"

She put the plates on the table. "I brought these for you," she said pointedly to Zelda.

"You're an angel, Cora. And some for Teddy, too. Dig in, Teddy, and have your first taste of our wild berries."

strained and white. Deep, dark circles were under his eyes. He seemed to see only Zelda.

"I've done it!" he said hoarsely and smiled a crooked smile. "I've finished my symphony. It's done." He leaned against the doorway. "I think it's good, Zelda. I think it's okay."

"Oh, Pete!" said Zelda, too intent on her own happiness to think of anything else. "You remember Count Varanisi. He found me way up here in the mountains. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Why—yes," said Pete, and what little color he had, drained from his face.

The count rose and extended his hand. "Glad to see you again," he said smoothly.

"Thanks," said Pete. "I hope you'll excuse me. I'll see you later."

He turned and went into the house. Cora followed him.

"PETE," she said, "Pete, don't mind. She just didn't think. She's excited. She's really awfully interested in your music. And I'm awfully glad too, Pete. I don't know a great deal about such things—but I do know a thing or two about you—and if you think it's good, I'll eat it."

Pete grabbed her and hugged her. "Thanks, old girl," he said. "I can always depend on you. You're an angel, Cora. And some for Teddy, too. Dig in, Teddy, and have your first taste of our wild berries."

"Stop it!" commanded Cora. But there was no stopping Pete now. He lifted Cora despite her struggles and carried her across the room.

entire symphony he had been working on for months and had just completed.

Sam and Eglantine appeared in the doorway, their eyes rolling and their teeth flashing.

Pete finally finished—with a flourish. His audience shared his ecstasy.

"Lord bless us," said Eglantine, "I never heard nothin' like it."

"Me neither," agreed Sam, and he went to prepare a julep for the genius.

"PETE," she exclaimed. Cora. She slid from the piano and went to the door.

"I guess they've gone for a walk," she told Pete, indicating the empty porch.

"The devil with them!" said Pete, and gathering up his note books, he went to his room.

Cora followed his example and sought the seclusion of her bedroom. Slowly she undressed and, wrapped in a pet purple kimono, stretched out flat on her back across the bed. This position she nearly always found conducive to clear thinking. But it failed her today. In the first place she could not imagine how the count had discovered their whereabouts. She thought and thought about it but no solution presented itself. So finally she gave it up and turned her mind to other phases of the situation.

Here was everything right back exactly as it had been before they left the city. Maybe things were even worse now. Undoubtedly the count would hurry Zelda along this time. There was no telling. They might be getting engaged even while she lay there thinking about them. Things looked pretty black—for once Cora was thoroughly discouraged and at a loss.

SECOND AUXILIARY HOLDS MEETING

Gracious hospitality of Mrs. David Beatty and Mrs. Harold Banghart was enjoyed by members of the Presbyterian Second Auxiliary on Friday afternoon when they assembled for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. E. E. Koebly conducted devotions on "The Miracle of Spring."

Mrs. Carleton Foss, of Sugar Grove, former missionary to Malaya, was the speaker. Because she had recently left that country, in January of 1942, three weeks before the Japanese occupation, her information was authentic and up to date. Limited only by the time allotted her, Mrs. Foss gave a clear picture of life in Malaya before the seizure by Japan, correcting many erroneous ideas held by her listeners. She closed her talk with a plea for tolerance and understanding of all other members of the human race.

Concluding, tea was served by Mrs. George L. Craft, with Mrs. E. W. Conarro, Mrs. M. A. Connelly, Mrs. Myrtle Dalrymple, Miss Macie Flower, Mrs. Fletcher Parker, Miss Mary Kopf, Mrs. R. W. Mackey, Mrs. Donald Morgan, Mrs. Evelyn Overturf and Mrs. H. C. Warren on the assisting committee.

Instructor Gives Russian Address For WSCS Ladies

Mrs. W. G. Cable was chairman of the following committee for the May dinner of the WSCS of First Methodist church. A letter in Founders Hall: Mrs. P. D. Belknap, Mrs. H. B. Bowersox, Miss Joanna Bright, Mrs. Roy Brown, Miss Lucille Farrell, Mrs. F. A. Lesser, Mrs. Ray Lewis, Mrs. Warren Miller, Mrs. J. R. Shepard and Mrs. E. S. Stiller Mrs. J. J. Garber gave the invocation.

Adjourning to Dunham parlors, Mrs. E. S. Briggs opened the business meeting, Mrs. C. C. Burch conducting devotions on the theme "Infant Voices". A letter was read from Miss Carrie C. Canyon telling of her work in Malaya and Mrs. Bowersox made a plea for workers to make surgical dressings for the Red Cross.

Mrs. I. A. Reed had charge of the program, which opened with a fine talk on "Russia Changes Her Mind" by R. R. Young, of the high school faculty. In well constructed and comprehensive form the speaker traced the growth and various aspects of the socialistic movement in Russia during the past century, emphasizing at all points the practical, realistic approach of Joseph Stalin to political, economic and religious problems, in contrast with the idealistic but revolutionary methods of the earliest communist leaders.

In closing, he presented an effective appeal for an attitude of prayer and dedication of self on the part of every individual citizen of American prior to D-Day in order that the ideals of democracy shall triumph in the coming conflict and that America shall take her rightful place as the dominant world influence for justice, honorable dealing and Christian ethics.

Gloria Hausman, accompanied by Evelyn Volstencroft, sang "Passing By" and "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Mrs. George Muir pronounced the benediction.

Plans were made for the June meeting, to be held in the form of a picnic in Crescent Park.

MEMORIAL DAY MIRACLE

By Robert D. Duncan

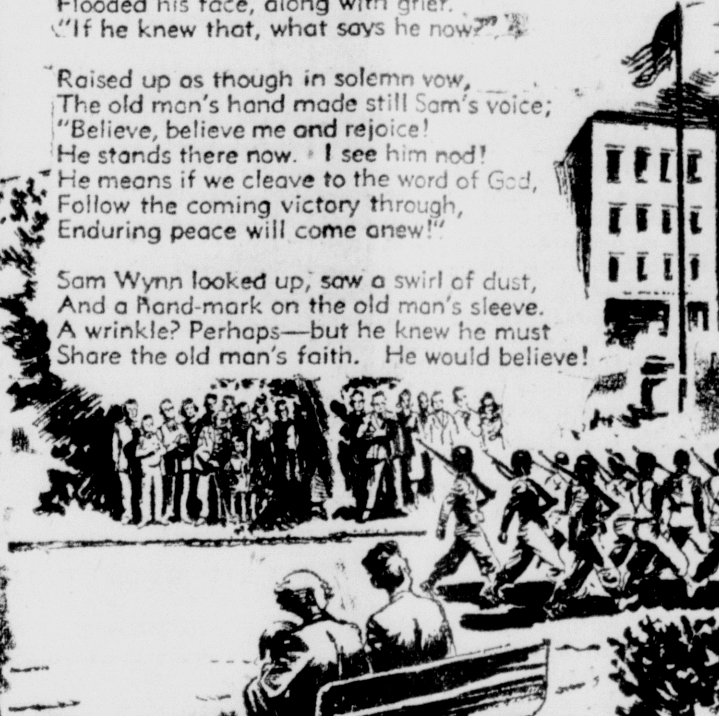

The parade was done.
The old man sat in the morning sun.
Watching the last of it; boys of the Band
Crossing the square, trumpets in hand.
"Taps they blew, for young Don Breen."
Sighed Samuel Wynn "What will he clean
Of Victory? Like my boy, Jed—"
The old man slowly shook his head:

"He'll know, Sam! Why? my boy knew!
Sure as I'm sitting here talking to you."
"He's added, thought Sam. Never been right
Since his lad was gassed in the trenches that night!"
"Twas at the Armistice Day parade;
I felt his touch, turned unafraid
And saw him, smiling, yet somehow sad."

"He shook his head, No, I'm not mad—
I saw him, I tell you, and now I know why
He looked that way. He'd had to die
For victory that hadn't been won—
"Another day Man would shoulder a gun."
Sam Wynn was silent, a Disbelief
Flooded his face, along with grief.
"If he knew that, what says he now?"

Raised up as though in solemn vow,
The old man's hand made still Sam's voice:
"Believe, believe me and rejoice!
He stands there now. I see him nod!
He means if we cleave to the word of God,
Follow the coming victory through,
Enduring peace will come anew!"

Sam Wynn looked up; saw a swirl of dust,
And a hand-mark on the old man's sleeve.
A wrinkle? Perhaps—but he knew he must Share the old man's faith. He would believe!

Youngsville High To Graduate Large Class There This Evening

Youngsville, May 29—Events of Youngsville junior and senior high school graduation which are taking first place in Youngsville community life, will close this evening when sixty high school seniors will graduate with a fine program in the high school auditorium.

With an unusual sequence, the first event of the commencement period was the welcome of the Youngsville high school alumni at the school gymnasium where a social evening with dancing by the music of the Jordan orchestra and refreshments were provided by the Alumni Association.

The senior high school Class Night program was Thursday evening with a pleasing playlet centering about "Flier" Bill Homer, others taking part, Margaret Peterson, Irene Wilson, Edward Zawacki, Frances Sedlak, Louise Johnson, Helen Nodzak, Jean Belden and Ross Bailey.

Special class numbers were, Class Will, Louise Johnson; Class Donor, Margaret Peterson and Class Prophecy, Frances Sedlak.

Musical selections included: Accordion solo, Elizabeth Teonchuk; piano duet, Marian Danielson, Dorothy Reed; vocal selections by Patricia McKinney with Carmen Hendrickson as accompanist.

There was also a very fine girls' chorus and an orchestra composed of seniors. The decorations were pleasing and the program as a whole was one of the best Class Night events of the school history.

The Junior high school with a class of seventy-five presented a splendid graduation program Friday evening. The class entered with a professional march and singly crossed the platform and were seated at the front while the orchestra played.

The invocation was given by Rev. Chas. McIntyre. Dorothy VanGulder gave the welcome. A trumpet duet was given by Geo. Taylor and Lucille Young. The biography of Frank Knox was given by Theo. Franklin.

A timely play "Message from Bataan" was given by a large cast of Junior high school graduates, all Freshmen. The play presented the heroism of Bataan and showed the part in the war efforts which can be accomplished at home. Stewart Smith acted as a narrator.

As Paul R. Getts, supervising principal of Youngsville school is now a Lt. J.G. in the Navy, diplomas were presented by Acting Supervising Principal E. C. Stillings. Claude Luvison, president of the class, replied and was later presented the Legion award by Commander of the Halgren-Wilcox Post Miss Augusta Johnson. Mrs. Dorothy Crandall, president of the Auxiliary, presented an award to Dorothy Van Gulder. After a selection by the brass quartette, the benediction was pronounced by Father Jacobs and the class marched out of the auditorium as the orchestra played a recessional. This group will enter school next year as Sophomores of the Youngsville high school.

Hope Windows Defeat S.-W. at the State Hospital 5 to 3

Last Saturday's game at the hospital between the Hope Windows and "Red" Struthers Wells club proved to be a pleasant surprise to most of the spectators. Both teams have plenty of young material and both player heads-up. The game was a saw affair with nice fielding the part of both clubs. The "Hopes" have had more experience this season as they have already three full games under their belts. The hits were even, nine in the sixth and eighth innings and considering the fact that this was his first time this season, done an excellent

Freddie Gagliardi pitched in mid-season form as he struck out 16 Emporium batsmen and chalked up victory No. 1, for the National Forge before a good-sized crowd at Wilder Field Sunday afternoon. Grippio and Grimone were the only visitors that Freddie failed to get by the strike out route. Score: Warren 6, Emporium 2.

Neither team scored in the first three and one-half innings. Forge finally broke the ice in the last of the fourth when Emmie Morrison singled and went to second on Gagliardi's fielder's choice, scoring when Mike Solock drove a 356-foot double to deep left field. Natale was safe on Yakatan's error. Giegrich fanned but McKinney singled scoring Solock.

Forge pushed two more over in the fifth while the visitors tallied once. Yakatan singled, went to second on an error and scored when Wicke's roller got away from Morrison. Forge got two in three fifth. J. Massa singled, advanced to second on Rosequist's out, Gagliardi walked and M. Solock drove his second double of the day to deep center, both runs scoring. Forge tallied twice in the sixth after Giegrich led off with a single. McKinney singled. Giegrich went to third. McKinney to second. Creola singled to center, scoring Giegrich and Morrison singled Creola over the bag with the last run of the game.

Emporium tallied its final run in the eighth when Wicke walked, crossing the plate on Morrison's two-base error of Grippio's fly.

Some ABC stuff about E

is a very important letter in this war.

It's the name of the War Bonds you buy—"War Savings Bond Series E."

As you know, a Series E Bond will work for you for ten full years, piling up interest all that time, till finally you'll get four dollars back for every three you put up. Pretty nice.

The first job of the money you put into "E" is, of course, to help finance the war. But it also gives you a wonderful way to save money.

And when the war is over, that money you now put away can do another job, can help America swing over from war to peace.

There'll come a day when you'll bless these Bonds—when they may help you over a tough spot.

That's why you should make up your mind to hang on to every Bond you buy. You can, of course, cash in your Bonds any time after you've held them for 60 days. You get all your money back, and, after one year, all your money plus interest.

But when you cash in a Bond, you end its life before its full job is done. You don't give it its chance to help you and the country in the years that lie ahead.

You kill off its $4-for-every-$3 earning power.

All of which it's good to remember when you might be tempted to cash in some of your War Bonds. They are yours, to do what you want with.

But... it's ABC sense that...

They'll do the best job for you and for America if you let them reach the full flower of maturity!

Single Head Proposed For Armed Forces

By JACK BELL

Washington, May 29—(P)—Legislation giving the air forces equal footing with the Army and Navy in a proposed new single "department of armed forces" was ready today by Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip.

Hill told reporters that, acting on his own responsibility, he was proposing abolition, six months after the close of the war, and navy departments and the establishment of a new, consolidated military set-up under a "secretary of the armed forces."

After aid in drafting the measure he followed suggestions made by Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy army chief of staff, and Harold D. Smith, director of the budget, in testimony before a special house committee.

Two Suffocated in PHILIPSBURG BLAZE

Philadelphia, May 29—(P)—Clarence Hoover, 38, and his four-year-old son, John, suffocated in a second-story bedroom as fire swept through their home yesterday, Coroner Charles Sheckler reported.

Hoover, after removing his aged mother, Mrs. Lew Hoover, from the house in a blanket, re-entered the dwelling in a futile attempt to rescue his son, who was ill. Bodies of the two were found on the bedroom floor, Sheckler said.

Ideas for Recon-version Are Outlined By Coast Executive

(From Page One)

Governor Warren—mentioned for a place on the Republican national ticket, although asserting he is not a candidate—said in solving the question of reconversion "there can be no substitute for public discussion and thoroughly considered legislative action by the congress."

Governor Leverett Saltonstall (R) of Massachusetts, chairman of the national conference of governors, presented the president's message at the opening session of the 36th annual meeting of chief executives.

Governor Saltonstall, in opening the conference, asserted that "the economic and social stability of the world will depend largely upon the strength of the United States" and that "our people count much" on the unit of state government.

Governor Martin, the host executive, welcomed the governors to Pennsylvania, declaring the conference had been planned with the sole idea of assisting in the war effort.

He said tomorrow's gathering of the governors at Memorial Day exercises on the Gettysburg battlefield "will be the most important Memorial Day service held on that field since Lincoln's Gettysburg speech."

America Honors her Heroes

★ ★ ★ Decoration Day Tuesday, May 30, 1944

★ Wherever our banner flies, Freedom's cause is protected. It will be lowered tomorrow, Decoration Day, in reverence to those who in years gone by have fought boldly and well for the cause each in his time believed in preserving; also to those who have made the supreme sacrifice in the present world-wide struggle to end tyranny forever. There are thousands fighting under the Stars and Stripes who have given their lives that democracy might survive, even as more are doing today. In salute to them and to the heroes of yesteryear, Old Glory dips to half mast on Decoration Day as we who live on rededicate ourselves to all that our Flag signifies.

This page is sponsored by the following business concerns in tribute to all American heroes, past and present. The nation pauses tomorrow to do them homage:
